

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A content addressable memory (CAM) device having a range compare function. A boundary value is stored within a plurality of CAM cells within the CAM device. A range compare operation is performed to determine whether a comparand is greater than the boundary value. A result signal is asserted if the comparand is greater than the boundary value.

5